INDIANA WOMEN SLUMMERS.

The Visited Chicago With the Best of Motives and Were Shocked. The Indianapolis members of the Chicago "slumming" expedition have returned home. The ladies who joined in the expedition are recognized leaders in W. C. T. U. work in Indiana. All of them are reported as excessively chagrined over the publicity given their visit to Chicago slums, which was undertaken with the best of motives.

"There are some falsehoods which should be corrected," says Miss Ayres. "We left our lodgings at 11 p. m. and returned at 1:15 precisely. We did not visit the worst resorts either. We aimed to inspect the more decent vices, but the Lord knows for what we or they were all bad enough. The detective who guided us said it was an uncommon occurrence for parties of religious ladies to visit these resorts for scientific purposes, and our visit would never have leaked out if it had not been for a Judas Iscariot of a newspaper man, who gave the whole affair away."

"We had but one simple, solitary and laudatory purpose in making the visit," continued the lady. "We wanted to find some practical means of elevating fallen women. Our object was to ascertain what relationship the tobacco and liquor habits bear to this unmentionable vice which we are seeking to cure. If we can strike at the root of the disease, it will be a comparatively easy matter to cure the disease itself. We ascertained that there was a very close relationship between the three vices, and that the latter is superinduced by the tobacco and liquor habits. Now we know whatever we do to lessen the amount of tobacco and liquor sold, by just that much will we lessen the vice which we are aiming at."

Miss Ayres was asked if what the ladies saw was calculated to lessen their estimation of humanity in general. "They were simply shocked," she answered. "They saw that so much evil existed. Most of the resorts were like gilded palaces and were always accompanied by liquor and tobacco attachments where the girls indulged as freely as the men. I never want to see the like again. We were not prompted by morbid curiosity. We were working in the interests of social purity, and our motives were of the highest character. We believe that we did a good work."—Indianapolis Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

CHARGED TO A WOMAN.

It is Said That the American Wife of Barrios Has Caused the Guatemalan Trouble.

A woman again. We learn that the prompter of the recent revolution in the republic of Guatemala, through which a dictatorship has been set up, was an ambitious woman, the American wife of General Barrios, a lady whose name is not unknown in New York. The enemies of Barrios in Guatemala declare that it was she who induced him to proclaim himself dictator, and who is the author of the arbitrary policy under which the country is ruled at this time, and under which the deputies are kept in prison and the army is held ready for action and suspected persons are banished, and the people are compelled to keep as quiet as they can. The enemies of Barrios say that he has neither the pluck nor the brains needed for a dictator, and that he is merely the tool of the determined American woman whom he took to wife.

She may yet live the day in which she conceived the dictatorship. The anti-Barrios Guatemalans are arrayed against her. They denounce her in whispers. They condemn her in placards, which are stuck up in the night time on the dead walls and fences of the city of Guatemala la Nueva. They get out circulars, which are surreptitiously printed and secretly distributed, in which she is characterized as an "American interloper." There is no doubt that she is in danger. If the Constitutionalists who are lurking around the capital and on the Salvadorian frontier, stealthily preparing to take the field against the dictatorship, shall overthrow Barrios, we cannot say that she will not suffer as hard a lot as she has been charged with inflicting upon others. We are surprised at her course. Americans ought to be the champions of democratic freedom and republican institutions everywhere.—New York Sun

THE TARIFF QUESTION.

The Committee on Ways and Means, according to report, find the tariff problem a difficult one to solve. Though the Committee has drafted a bill it is not probable that it will be satisfactory to Congress or the country. There are so many interests to be considered and such a diversity of opinions that it is no easy matter to arrange schedules. Texas, Ohio and other States object to putting wool on the free list; West Virginia and Pennsylvania protest against a reduction of the tariff on coal and iron ores, and Louisiana, Nebraska and Kansas strenuously object to abolishing the bounty on sugar unless sugar is made dutiable. The Louisiana and Kansas Senators and Allen of Nebraska will oppose the tariff bill throughout if some encouragement is not given sugar producers either by bounty or a tariff. This might result in the defeat of the bill in the Senate. The discussion of tariff proves the truth of General Hancock's assertion that it is a local question. Coal and iron producing States want those articles protected; the States in which cane or beet sugar is manufactured do not want sugar on the free list, the wool-growing States are averse to taking the tariff off wool, the lead miners will not quietly submit to admitting lead duty free, and so on through the entire list. The manufacturing States want the raw material free, but will oppose a reduction on manufactures. The boot and shoe makers of Massachusetts rebel against a tariff on hides as well as against a reduction of the tariff on articles made of leather.

The tariff bill will, therefore, be a compromise measure. The interests of various localities have to be considered. Concessions will have to be made all round, as no Senator or Representative in Congress will permit the industries of his section to be crippled for the benefit of another part of the country. McKinley claimed that his bill put more articles on the free list than the Mills bill, yet it is called a high tariff measure. Originally it provided for a tariff of a cent and a half per pound of sugar, but finally it put sugar on the free list. Then the bounty clause was added to secure the votes of Senators Morrill and Edmunds of Vermont.

As a matter of justice aside from all other considerations industries that have been protected for years should not in a day or a month be deprived of all protection. A woolgrower should have opportunity to dispose of his flocks to the butcher and get out of the business as best he can, and the merchant should have time to get rid of the stock which he purchased under high tariff laws. The people like fair play, and the justice of extending the time in which radical changes in the tariff are to take effect is so apparent that the most ardent free trader cannot object to it.

IRVING M. SCOTT, the great ship-builder and President of the Union Iron Works, San Francisco, advocates free coal and free iron ore. In a communication to the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives he says with coal and iron ore free he could compete with English ship builders, and, in fact, build ships as cheap as they do on the Clyde. This shows the difficulty of formulating a satisfactory tariff bill. Mr. Scott wants protection against foreign builders, but he wants ore from which to manufacture iron and the coal used in smelting the ore admitted free of duty.

ALBERT WOLFF, a prominent German Democrat, threw himself in front of a locomotive at St. Paul, Minn., and his body was so horribly mangled that it could be scarcely identified. He edited the St. Louis Daily Volks Zeitung during the Presidential campaign and advocated Cleveland's election. He expected to get a Federal appointment and desponding over his failure is given as the cause of his rash act.

COLONEL MENDELL and Colonel Benyard of the United States Engineer corps and Colonel Blanco of the Mexican Boundary Survey Commission have been consulting as to the feasibility of improving the Colorado river. All believe that the project of making the Colorado navigable from its mouth to Grand Canyon, a distance of 700 miles, is entirely feasible.

The Elko Independent says: Shipping horses to Texas opens up a new market for the sagebrush rancher. Nevada horses are harder than those raised in lower latitudes and they command good prices in the Eastern markets. The world will soon learn that the best of everything is raised in Nevada.

A REPORT circulated by some newspapers that the President has not approved the bill to suspend the clause of the mining act of 1872 requiring the annual expenditure of $100 on unpatented mining claims is said to be unfounded. It is stated upon the authority of Senator Perkins of California that the President signed the bill.

CONGRESSMAN CHARLES O'NEILL of Philadelphia died at his home in that city Saturday night, aged 72 years. He represented his district in every Congress for thirty-one years, and was known as the Father of the House.

The vote in Kansas this year was 20,870 less than a year ago. There was no State officers elected and the Populists did not all go the polls.

WELCOMED HOME.

Hon. James A. Yerington Banqueted at Reno.

Hon. James A. Yerington, Nevada's Commissioner who had charge of the State's exhibit at the Columbian Exposition, arrived at Reno on his way to Carson on Sunday evening last. The people of Reno have a high appreciation of the services and success of Mr. Yerington in placing Nevada at the Exposition before the world in a just and proper light. For the purpose of showing, in a befitting manner, their appreciation of the service so freely given, an excellent banquet was prepared at the Riverside, and served in a style and manner that has made that hotel noted over the Coast, in honor of the return of the young man who so well and ably represented the State at the Exposition. The train from the East was late, but the people waited patiently till Mr. Yerington descended to the platform, when he was taken in charge by the committee appointed to receive him.

The reception committee conducted the people's guest to the Riverside, accompanied by Hastings' Cornet Band giving forth in its best style from the brazen throats of a dozen pieces national airs that were echoed in mellow harmony by the surrounding hills.

The banquet-hall, ablaze with incandescent light, showed viands in quantity and quality in fastidious taste so inviting that a confirmed dyspeptic could not think of indigestion. Mr. Yerington, accompanied by his distinguished father, was seated by the committee at the place of honor. Others were then seated at the grand repast, where wit and humor flowed as well as wine.

When justice was done by all to the good things on the table, Hon. W. H. A. Pike, Master-of-Toast, showed by thought and speech his thorough education for the delicate position he occupied by giving in eloquent and well chosen words the toasts arranged by the committee having them in charge.

"OUR GUEST"
Was the theme of the opening remarks of Mr. Pike, to whose remarks Mr. Yerington responded in a modest and scholarly manner. He said it would be his maiden effort at speech-making, and very little in that line should be expected. He gave, in the course of his remarks, an outline of his work at the Exposition and gave in detail the way the work was conducted.

It was interesting to learn from the speaker about the ideas and conclusions of Eastern people regarding Nevada, most of whom had heard of the State as a mineral-bearing region, but in all other particulars they were fully persuaded it is a barren and desolate waste. At the close of his remarks, Mr. Yerington showed the taste of a gentleman by giving to others of the Commission a largess of credit for the good work he believed had been accomplished than he claimed for himself.

DR. BERGSTEIN
Responded to the toast "Nevada's Flour." It is evident the Doctor's learning is not confined to his profession. He has been many years in Nevada and has taken some interest in her hills and dales. Nevada flour, said the Doctor, is the best in the world, and the award made to Nevada at the Exposition for the best flour in the world is just.

The soil and climate of Nevada combine in elements necessary to the finest development of wheat. The Valley of the Jordan, in Asia, for four thousand years produced the best wheat in the world, and continued to do so till wheat was grown in Nevada. In the Jordan basin the climate and soil properties are very much like the climate and soil properties of Nevada. It is ascertained as a scientific fact that the properties that enter the best development of wheat in the Valley of the Jordan are contained in rocks, such as were used in the construction of Solomon's Temple. These properties have been set free by decomposition of the rocks containing them and are taken up by the wheat plant. Similar and equally fine properties have been and are contained in the rocks of Nevada. These properties have been, and are being continually set free and the wheat plant growing in Nevada feeds upon them, giving, as a result, the finest wheat produced at this time in the world.

All there is remaining necessary to the production of the finest flour in the world is the very best milling machinery. Such machinery has been placed in Reno's flouring mills, as is shown by the award. Many other matters of interest were discussed by Dr. Bergstein.

STATE SENATOR WESTERFIELD
Responded to "Nevada's Grasses." The Senator has devoted his thirty years in Nevada to mining and mining industries, but has given attention and time to matters of general interest to the State not directly included in mining and milling.

Senator Westerfield said: When talking about grasses grown in our State, I will, of necessity, include the growth of all, or nearly all, the vegetable growth in the State. Our grasses are the best in the world, because of the mineral properties set free by the action of the elements and now in the soils of the State. These mineral properties are more plentiful in our soils than they are in any of the soils of other parts of the world. These properties enter our grasses and are required for the nourishment and growth of stock. Because of the abundance of these food minerals, our hay is possessed of more muscle and fat producing properties than are contained in the grasses of the Eastern States, or that possessed by any grasses raised in other parts of the world. I visited the Chicago Exposition and visited several times Nevada's exhibit. While it was not large, it was the best at the Exposition in the lines represented.

HON. GEORGE RUSSELL
Responded to "Our Soils." Mr. Russell said our soils are the best in the world. In order to illustrate my meaning, I will direct attention to the soils on the Ohio river and the soils upon the hills of New England. The soil properties on the Ohio river and on the hills of New England are the same, relatively speaking, in quantity, but the soils on the Ohio river will raise from sixty to eighty bushels of corn to the acre, while the New England soils will not, as the phrase goes, raise black-eyed peas, the reason being that the soils upon the river are in better form than are the soils on the hills of New England.

So it is with the soils of Nevada when compared with the soils of most parts of the earth. They are in better form and give up plentifully of the properties needed for plant growth and first-class development. As a Commissioner for the State at the Chicago Exposition, I did whatever I could to further its best interests. My young friend Yerington did a splendid and noble work, and the State owes gratitude and thanks to him for his untiring work in her behalf.

DOCTOR PATTERSON
Spoke of forces, particularly of water, and how to utilize them; also of bases in the form of alkalies, and their value to the State.

A number of other gentlemen were heard upon matters of interest, whose addresses were well received and applauded. Time having passed to the wee small hours beyond the twelve, the banquet was closed by announcement of General Turrittin, chairman.

Telegraphic Notes.
Four men with cocked revolvers relieved twenty-two persons in a Chicago saloon of all their valuables.

A freight train on the Baltimore & Ohio road went through a bridge near Hyndman, Pa., and seven tramps who were riding in one of the cars are supposed to be in the stream under the wrecked cars.

The tariff bill prepared by the Ways and Means Committee has been published. It increases the free list and proposes a sliding scale of reduction on several articles. Wool is to go on the free list March 1st, but it is extremely doubtful if the bill passes the Senate before May.

IN OLDEN TIMES
People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

THE MORNING SESSION.

At half past ten o'clock yesterday morning, in the general assembly room of the Reno High School, County Superintendent of Public Schools B. F. Currier called the assemblage of teachers and others to order as a County Institute and declared the election of a Secretary in order. On motion of Prof. John E. Bray, Miss Frances Short was elected Secretary. Following the rendering of the National hymn by the audience and the singing of a chorus by the High School choir, Mr. Currier welcomed the teachers in the following words:

"I am one of those who rejoice in the fact that our little State is one of the most liberal in the support of its public schools and bountiful in the treatment of its teachers. The fact that I find you here at this time impresses me with faith in you and your work. It has become an adage with us that a school teacher, especially of the feminine gender, can be recognized anywhere. In conclusion permit me to express the wish of myself as well as of the home teachers that this may be to all a profitable meeting, and when its close shall come may you count among your other gains the renewal of old friendships and the formation of new ties of friendship, and in the name of the County Institute I now wish you a hearty, hearty welcome."

Prof. Ring responded to the address of welcome in the following manner: "In behalf of the teachers here assembled it becomes my pleasure to respond to your hearty greeting. For your cordial words of welcome we thank you. We are gathered here at this time because we believe the work we are engaged in is of the greatest importance, and like the irrigation question, free trade and many other questions which are considered of vital importance and need discussion and interchange of thought, so we think the educational ideas need stimulating, and we hope from this meeting to gain new inspiration. Our work is for the rising generation—the girls and boys of to-day, but we trust the benefits will reach far into the future. Our State is young, and although in her youth she has passed through trials and tribulations unknown to some of the older States.

"For over thirty years I have been engaged in teaching in this State, and have watched its educational progress. Although more populous other times than now, I do not think our schools were ever better than at the present time, and while our population may be decreasing we hope to have the efficiency of our public schools increase."

"In November, 1863, thirty years ago, I commenced my first school in the State at Ophir, Virginia City, Gold Hill, Carson, Ophir, Franktown, Washoe City, Genoa, Dayton and Glendale had flourishing schools at that time. Now schools are scattered all over the State, Elko county alone employing over forty teachers. With the decrease in our population the school census of course falls, but not in the same ratio—the families remaining, while the floating population emigrates.

"We have a University now which is becoming one in fact as well as in name, and the Normal School, which is a department of that institution, will be a blessing to the State and aid in building up the cause of education within her borders. But there are questions coming up all the time which demand attention from the teachers and school officers. In our towns I think there is a larger number of children, especially boys, of school age not attending school than ever before. There is a growing demand for the better preparation of teachers for the work they engage in. There is required a more effective method of carrying out the law, providing for the teaching of the effects of alcohol and narcotics upon the human system. All these and others demand the attention of every teacher and of every patron of our schools. These questions can be agitated and discussed in our institute and much good derived."

"While thanking you for this cordial welcome, we in a measure reciprocate by welcoming your people to our meetings."

Prof. Bray then moved that the County Institute adjourn to meet with the State Institute, which was carried.

Prof. Ring now called the State Institute to order and introduced Miss Mary E. Roberts of the Carson public schools, who read an interesting paper on "Attention—How Cultivated." At the close of her address, which was largely extemporaneous, a lively discussion took place over the ideas advanced.

Prof. F. C. McDiarmid next read a paper entitled, "Elementary Physiology in the Common Schools," in which he took advanced ground in advocacy of the study of the hygiene attending bad habits, teaching the pupil the evil results of the abuses of health—alluding chiefly to the cigarette evil.

In the discussion following, the general sentiment seemed to be that the best way to keep a boy from acquiring evil habits was to work as much as possible to develop the good in him directly, and not by prohibitions. Miss Schallenberg of the Stanford University summed up the matter in the terse little saying: "Don't use too many 'Thou Shalt' Notes."

AFTERNOON SESSION.

After a song by the High School choir, Miss Schallenberg read a paper on "Primary Reading." Considerable surprise was manifested by many who had not before met or seen the lady as to her youthful appearance. The name of Miss Schallenberg has for many years been high among the leaders of advanced education on the Pacific Coast, and she has not only filled an important chair of pedagogy in the California State Normal School at San Jose, but was called from that institution to occupy a similar position at the Stanford University. One studying Miss Schallenberg's manner is strongly impressed with the conviction that great teachers like true poets are not made, but born. When one has the gift, which Miss Schallenberg seems to possess in a marked degree, of conducting a recitation with the same vivacity and enjoyment as a conversation, it would seem that what the pupil learns from the teacher herself—from her manner and influence—must be infinitely more valuable than what is gained from the books.

Miss Penrose followed Miss Schallenberg with an address on "Object Lessons and Language." Miss A. Summerfield of the Orphans' Home followed in an able address on the important topic "The Recitation." The subject matter must be assimilated in order to do any good. Illustrate and explain when necessary. We regret that lack of space will not admit of a more copious synopsis of this excellent paper.

Miss M. Gillooly followed in a well prepared article on Written Arithmetic. The lady demonstrated her work on the blackboard, and emphasized the necessity of frequent reviews. Much discussion followed the presentation of this essay; Miss Gillooly was frequently interrogated, and somewhat harshly and severely taken to task by many of the sterner sex. It was quite evident that a large majority of the teachers favored the stand taken by the Carson lady, and had the question come to a vote she would have "been in it," strictly speaking.

The evening session of the Institute was held in McKissick's Opera House. In spite of the rainy weather the auditorium held in addition to the teachers attending, a large number of citizens. The Reno High School choir, which was to have opened the exercises, failed to materialize, and the address of Prof. H. H. Howe was given first.

Prof. Howe's paper on the "Responsibility of the Parents to the School" was exceedingly well written and most effectively delivered. The speaker commanded closest attention and was heartily applauded.

Following Mr. Howe, Prof. Lewers of the Business Department of the State University read an elaborate paper on "The Teacher's Preparation and Responsibility." A vocal solo by Mrs. Layton, with violin and piano accompaniment by Prof. Hillman and Miss Stanaway respectively, was warmly enquired.

Prof. John Dickinson followed. His address upon "Biology," which would otherwise have proven very interesting and instructive, was sadly marred and brought to an untimely close by the gas in the Opera House going out. Prof. Dickinson is a Professor in Stanford University, a brother of Anna Dickinson of anti-slavery fame, and a most learned geologist.

GOLCONDA HOT SPRINGS.

A Large Volume of Warm Water Flowing from Artesian Wells.

L. Dutertre of Golconda is visiting Reno. He is making extensive improvements on the Golconda ranch which he purchased a few years ago. There are hot springs and fine alfalfa fields on the ranch, and he is improving both. In addition to the natural springs on the place he has sunk two artesian wells. One of these wells is 170 feet, and it flows nine inches of water thirty feet above the surface. The temperature of the water is 110 degrees, and it holds in solution sulphur, iron, magnesia, soda, aluminum and other minerals. About 125 feet from this well is another 115 feet deep with 10-inch casing. This discharges an immense volume of water four feet above the surface. It is the intention to bore this well several hundred feet deep, the water to be used for irrigating purposes. These wells do not lessen the flow of the natural springs which are situated about 2,000 feet from them. The temperature of the natural springs, of which there are several, ranges from 120 to 200 degrees, the latter being the boiling point at the altitude at which the springs are situated, and contain by analysis the same minerals in like proportions as the famous Arkansas Hot Springs.

There are 1,900 acres of land under cultivation on the ranch and the area will be increased in proportion to the quantity of water from the artesian wells, of which Mr. Dutertre intends to bore a dozen or more.

Impending Crisis.

LOVELOCK NOTES.

Agricultural and Mining Items From the New Era.

There is much activity at the White Cloud copper mines. Eighteen carloads of cattle arrived during the week to be fed by Russell & Bradley.

L. N. Carpenter has sold to the G. L. & C. Co., 200 tons of hay at $4.50 per ton, one-third rule, the purchasers to haul the hay in feeding.

Four large teams, each hauling to wagons of lumber, departed during the week from Fuss' Lumber Yard to the nickel mines in Cottonwood canyon. The teams are expected back Monday, making the round trip in seven days, when they will again load with lumber.

It is a subject of considerable conjecture in this section as to what the National Nickel Co. are preparing to do with their property in Cottonwood Canyon. The movements of the company heretofore have been known to be as uncertain as the manipulations of the Comstock mines, both depending on a stock deal. The National Nickel, under the guidance of Warren Miller, of Nicaragua canal fame, General Layton, and others, have been placed on the London market for 5,000,000, and in their prospectus of 1933 announce they own all the nickel mines in America. This last was a great injustice to the numerous claim owners in the very canyon in which the company have their property, the extent of the ore bodies and richness of the ores on some of these claims being fully as promising as the prospects on the National. But it is now announced that an English company are in possession and if such is the case, the property will undoubtedly be worked upon its merits.

Greenfield Burned.

Jack Page, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger, reported last evening that the business part of Greenfield (Pizen Switch), Lyon county, was burned yesterday afternoon. The fire was incendiary and three men were arrested, who will probably be lynched if the evidence of their guilt is conclusive.
